

MBN · MIND / BODY / NUTRITION

Liam Helton

Ten books. One long argument for paying attention.

Since 2010, Liam has written over fifteen thousand numbered reflections — on the ego, love, death, money, and the mind that gets in the way of all of it. These books are what came of the ones worth keeping.

STANDALONE

The Architecture

What was underneath the whole time.

A single continuous essay, no interview, no scaffolding — eight movements tracing the ego's formation, the body, and what remains once the noise clears. The shortest book here, and the one closest to Liam's own voice.

MBN IMAGE BOOK SERIES · QUOTE + ART

One theme. One image per page.

A newer format — each reflection paired with a piece of art made for it alone, moving between light and shadow the way the subject itself does.

VOLUME ONE

Love, In Light and Shadow

35 reflections · four movements

From the weight we carry through what remains once love is finally let go of correctly — every reflection facing a piece of art made only for it.

VOLUME TWO

Ego, In Light and Shadow

40 reflections · four movements

The ego isn't the enemy — it's a negotiator, not a terminator.
Forty reflections on the mask, the cost, and what it looks like to work in tandem with it instead of against it.
